Jamie Levin Hochberg and Danny Hochberg are members of a very prestigious club -- Schechter students who reconnect later in life, fall in love, and get married! Jamie and Danny were just two years apart during their Schechter years. They knew of each other growing up and Jamie's twin brother Matthew (SSDS '06) even drove Danny to tennis practice at Rochelle Zell Jewish High School. However, it wasn't until they were college students attending Hillel programs at Boston University that they became close friends and later fell in love.

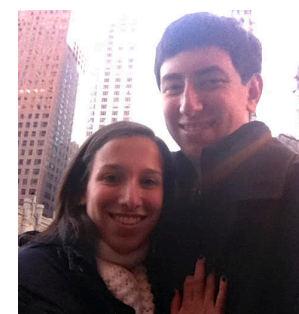

Danny graduated from BU with a degree in finance. Jamie stayed on and received a master's degree in speech pathology. They married in 2018, settled in Chicago, and now live in Highland Park. Jamie is currently a speech pathologist and is studying to receive a certificate in advanced language and literacy. She enjoys working with children and adolescents to help them overcome communication challenges.

Danny is the Founder of Dor2Dor Realty, a real estate investment firm focused on acquiring multifamily properties across Chicago. Outside of work, Jamie enjoys exercising (walking and using her Peloton) and spending time with family and friends. She also has a passion for continuing education. Danny is an avid Chicago sports fan and enjoys playing basketball and golf. He is also a member of the JUF's Young Leadership Board. Jamie and Danny are proud to keep a Kosher home and celebrate Shabbat each week with family and friends, many of whom they met at Schechter. "Schechter instilled within us the importance of a Jewish community. We learned from an early age the significance of celebrating Shabbat and the Jewish holidays," Jamie said. The couple also credits Schechter for teaching them how to think critically about text, engage in thoughtful discussions, and be able to see the perspective of others; skills that they continue to use in high school, college, and beyond.

Jamie and Danny's Schechter roots run deep. Between their siblings and the fact that their nephews are now students at Schechter, there is more than a 20-year family lineage at Schechter. This includes Deanna Levin (Abrams), Linda Levin (Moreen), Matthew Levin, Rachel Hochberg, Bobbi Hochberg, and Jessica Hochberg (engaged to Itamar Allali, son of Schechter teacher Avi Allali). Their nephews, Gabi and Jonah Abrams, are current students at Schechter, and Ari Abrams will be in kindergarten next year. And a special shout out to Jamie's aunt, Anita Grobert, who is a beloved 3-4 grade special education teacher at the Sager School.
